Jason was artistically inclined from an early age. Taking art classes from the age of five, he was encouraged to draw and write creatively. He became a published author at the age of fifteen when his poetry was published in the "Anthology of Poetry by Young Americans" two years running. He has also been very fortunate to have had artwork displayed at local museums in Downtown Miami. Around the same time, he began to look into the theater for other means of expressing his creativity.

Fostering his inherent talents, Jason's teachers gave him enough confidence to venture out into the real world on his own. He has been lucky to be a part of many productions including various TV commercials, Nickelodeon Latin America's "Grachi," AE's "The Glades," Starz Entertainment's "Magic City," and "Rock of Ages." He has also had the opportunity to perform professionally with the Pinecrest Repertory Theater.
