Actor Bio:

KAREN-EILEEN GORDON BIO

American actress Karen-Eileen Gordon stepped memorably into public awareness with her completely improvised turn opposite Larry David in the HBO comedy, "Curb Your Enthusiasm." Dozens of films, television shows and voiceovers later, her roles continue to win her fans around the globe.

Born in Philadelphia, Karen-Eileen grew up in Hollywood, Florida, where her parents ran a residential real estate company. She holds an Economics degree from Harvard, where that student body voted her "One of the Ten Funniest People" on campus, thanks to her daily-changing outgoing answering machine messages.

Karen-Eileen is most known to television audiences for her series recurring role in the STARZ Original Drama "Magic City," as sassy New Yorker FLORENCE, opposite series lead Jeffrey Dean Morgan.

Karen-Eileen continues to return to the stage (where she started her career, with improvisational theatre), and workshopped her original one-woman show "LifeCab" at the Whitefire Theatre in Los Angeles to critical acclaim; the show was also selected to be part of the largest one-person festival in the world, United Solo in New York City.

A fan of the "Wellness Arts," Karen-Eileen is a long-time practitioner of the Japanese energy healing arts of Reiki and Jorei, and of Hatha Yoga.
