Actor Bio:

Lauren White is an award-winning actor and producer you might recognize for one of her many comedic roles, including Lacey on "Parks & Recreation." Her career was sparked by home performances for family and a camcorder show, aptly titled, "Way Cool," created when she was 10. Since then, she's been celebrated in Variety, Yahoo! Entertainment, Authority Magazine, The Baltimore Sun, and on AfterBuzz TV for work as a Primetime Emmy Contender, a content creator (" Stop Spreading That Shi*t") as well as an actor on "House of Cards" and the HBO Max pilot, "Delilah." Lauren's passion is making people laugh and she is on a mission to spread kindness. The goal of her career and projects is to promulgate joy, as well as alleviate loneliness and suffering through her relatable performances. She loves animals and volunteers with Mutts Matter Rescue to transport, foster, and facilitate adoptions. She even rescued an injured [wild] squirrel!

Industry insiders say: " Everybody loves her and is impressed with her craft!" (Chris Game, casting director) and "... Lauren makes the work more funshe brings a positivity and enthusiasm to projects that makes everyone around her better." (Jamie Nash, screenwriter/producer, "Night Watchmen," "V/H/S").
