Actor Bio:

Born to Guyanese parentage, Ray is a London trained actor and has made appearances on stage and in front of the camera. Ray developed a love for the performing arts when he was just 11 years old. By the time he was 16 he had achieved a Grade A in Drama and since then has undertaken ongoing training to strengthen and hone his acting skills.

Ray grew up in the East End of London and while still at school was chosen to appear in a one night production at the Theatre Royal, Stratford, London; a theatre that dates back to 1884 and has played enormous significance in the careers for actors such as Sir Michael Caine.

Continuing on to complete various roles in theatre and film one of Ray's most challenging role was portraying Antonio in form of a rent boy in Shakespeare's Twelfth Night at the George Bernard Shaw Theatre at RADA.

Ray's plum roles are not his first brush with the world of entertainment, he was featured in various international magazines and newspapers after being mentioned on the sleeve notes of Janet Jackson's album Velvet Rope as one of the inspirations behind the song, Together Again.

Beating considerable competition Ray secured a place to study full-time at one of London's leading Drama Schools and is listed on the prestigious list of Alumni's at The Arts Educational School. Since graduating he has endorsed leading brands and has worked with leading TV, film and theatre directors.

Receiving accolades from the likes of Lady Shakira Caine and His Excellency The Guyana High Commissioner UK, Ray is featured as the youngest person in the worldwide selling book Guyanese Achievers.
