Actor Bio:

Robert was born in Tennessee. His father, Roy G. Spencer, U.S. Navy Retired, and his Mother, Mary C. Spencer, born and raised in Ireland, married over 48 years both live in Tennessee. Robert's desire to work as an actor started in college under the Direction of Broadway Playwright & Director William Snyder, a Yale MFA graduate and tenured professor. After serving in the US Navy and TN Army National Guard as well as earning a Masters degree in Adult Education, Robert closed his very successful window treatment company to pursue a management position in NYC at NYU as well as worked as an Adjunct Professor with a local Bronx College. Before moving to South Florida, from their Upper East Side apartment, Robert spent some time training at HB Studios, and worked on various INDY Films, as well as a year long stint as a Background Actor for Saturday Night Live. After working with and running into him on several social occasions Actor Alec Baldwin provided Robert with several words of encouragement. Whether or not those words where meant for it or not Robert deiced to produce his own films with his own money. This wasn't a venture Robert jumped into lightheartedly however he did learn a valuable lesson on his first short film called Expectations (2008) "Like Real-Estate, 'Pre-Production, Pre-Production, Pre-Production'". After tightening up his journey and wallet, Robert then found another unique project. After several months of back and forth, planning, and script changes Robert wrote another check or two and flew to Texas where they filmed Double Negative (2010). After a lengthy Post-Production the film was released in 2010 on David Arquette's online film distribution company, inmo.com its successful release turned some heads and opened up meetings to the now Film Producer and Actor Robert Gordon Spencer. Chasing his passion to help college students, Robert wasn't ready to leave for LA just yet. After moving to Boynton Beach, FL, Robert secured a Senior Management position with a large University in Palm Beach. Robert then auditioned and was accepted into the Master Acting Class with Actor Burt Reynolds in Jupiter, Florida. Mr. Reynolds often compared Robert's personality and acting talent with none other than James Stewart and Garry Marshall both personal friends to Mr.
