Actor Bio:

Henning Fischer was born in Pforzheim, Germany to parents Wolfgang and Ingrid Fischer. He has two younger brothers named Konstantin and Sebastian.

While some actors are inspired by celebrities or childhood fantasies, it was the more tangible subjects of mathematics and international business that helped him to uncover his passion for the arts. His global journey, culminating in Los Angeles, has taken him from studies in Berlin and New York to world travels across three continents.

Henning specializes in dramatic interpretations of dark characters, and delights in sinking his teeth into psychologically challenging roles. He has performed with Germany's Theater in der Kirche, touring extensively with productions of Minna Von Barnhelm by Gotthold Ephraim Lessing and The Imaginary Invalid by Moliere. In New York, he appeared in The Amulet (New Worlds Theatre) and Cocktails at the Centre of the Earth (Off-Off-Broadway). In Los Angeles he has performed with Chrysalis Stage in plays like Anna Karenina as well as bringing Shakespeare's mischievous Malvolio in Twelfth Night to life.

His film and television credits include One Fine Sunday, Synthetic_World, the FOX hit show Fringe and most recently ABC's Castle.

Mr. Fischer is fluent in German and is happy to volunteer his time for a good cause. In his free time, he enjoys photography and the great outdoors.
